

Information Poster: Water Cycle

Four stages, one continuous loop.

The water cycle is how water moves between Earth and the atmosphere. Energy from the Sun drives each stage of this never ending cycle.

1. The Sun heats water, turning it into invisible water vapour gas.

2. Cool air makes water vapour condense into clouds high in the sky.

3. Clouds release water as rain, hail, or snow to Earth's surface.